

9 comments on "Amazing Grace (Violin and Banjo)"

smijmk Says:

Monday, September 14, 2009 @10:08:49 PM

Great Job, I really enjoyed it. Awesome fiddle playing...

Boog Says:

Tuesday, September 15, 2009 @9:00:45 AM

Well done my man, well done!

Calbri Says:

Tuesday, September 15, 2009 @3:54:20 PM

Very nice!! It's very relaxing thumbs up

buddytrunick Says:

Tuesday, September 15, 2009 @7:21:45 PM

Absolutely perfect. Great arrangement.

Rick Woods Says:

Tuesday, September 29, 2009 @2:50:31 AM

Well worth the listen. Great job Manuel.

Ricky-T-jo Says:

Friday, October 16, 2009 @5:39:27 PM

Good chording banjoing at the beginning. Tremolo phase , ballad waltz, ending that sounds like a beginning. All that sounds good. Again great job. Who pay's you to play like that ? What's going to be next.

Nelson Says:

Thursday, October 29, 2009 @11:59:22 AM

Very nice. I liked the new and interesting feel you give this usually very somber dirge. It seemed that at times you are straining to reign in the banjo as it struggles to jump out into a full gallop

(first break)... interesting. One thing for sure is that you put a whole lot of thought and effort into this piece. I enjoy all of your work.

Karen Kruske Says:

Saturday, November 06, 2010 @5:05:21 PM

All your music is amazing. -and inspiring. Thank you.

BigMike9801 Says:

Wednesday, November 17, 2010 @7:31:55 PM

Amazing! I have a friend who plays classical violin and she has been after me to to a duet with her at church on this very song! This gave me quite a bit of inspiration and I hope ours sounds even half as good as yours! Well done!!