

9 comments on "Blackberry Blossom (Picking and Bowing)"

joemac Says:

Saturday, December 13, 2008 @10:47:00 AM

Thrilling, inspiring, just wonderful. this tops off a good year of music here on hangout.....a very merry xmas to you Manuel.....Joe thilo-w Says:

Saturday, December 13, 2008 @11:12:00 AM

Manuel, das klingt GROSSARTIG!!!

Ricky-T-jo Says:

Saturday, December 13, 2008 @11:12:00 AM

That is a bad job @#%?&*. How did you come up with something like that! I hate huber banjo's and all their tones. Their banjo's are completely bad and anctuously rediculously ringing out there good for nothing parts and etc...

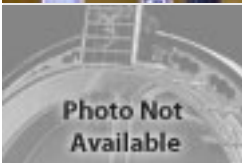

That tune is wonderful! Great job !

dpete210 Says:

Saturday, December 13, 2008 @1:41:00 PM

Manuel, great performance. Not only does your banjo sound great, but you play very well. You are very talented. Best wishes!

The KIDD Says:

Saturday, December 20, 2008 @1:58:00 PM

Yeah , Im gonna agree with Joe.Now, what are ya gonna do now to top THIS?.OHH, that was a dumb question now wasnt it?..LOL.Im SURE your already workin on IT..LOL.Hey man ,excellent as always.Many moods covered.Incredible RH control changin speeds!!! Another Masterpiece !!!...john brundecarli Says:

Sunday, December 21, 2008 @2:31:00 AM

Excellent job, great performance.Masterpiece!!!
Bruno

fergaloh Says:

Saturday, January 17, 2009 @11:54:00 AM

Great stuff. Great arrangement, great playin.

Tuneager Says:

Wednesday, December 30, 2009 @9:12:00 AM

You've done something not many can.
You've carved out your own niche and style!
Love the double harmony banjo part too!

Granada 22 Says:

Tuesday, May 18, 2010 @5:00:00 AM

Loved It great pickin and awesome sounding banjo
I hope my Mills Model sounds half that good when steve finishes it. Does yours have the HR 30 ring?